

In Pictures: The 10 Wickedest Haunted Houses In America

9/30/2010 @ 11:30AM

The Beast

Kansas City, Mo.

Cost: $25 per house

Amber Arnett-Bequeath's third-generation family business includes four haunted attractions within a four-block radius. The four-story Edge of Hell building is designed to induce claustrophobic reactions by forcing visitors to crawl through tight spaces until they escape through a five-story winding slide. The Chambers of Edgar Allen Poe recreates the poet's living quarters and graveyard inside a house. And the Macabre Cinema puts visitors inside their favorite horror movies, which play on a big screen while nearby actors and props make the action seem all too real. If all this isn't enough, dozens of dancers recreate Michael Jackson's Thriller music video.
